

Merry Christmas

2010

Going green again this year with our "card". Hope the holiday season finds you well and the new year continues in the same.

Missed getting a group lab picture at IU this year. The lab crew is down to one master's and one doctoral student.....with Blair, the doctoral student, graduating in August. Blair is pictured measuring the condition of the → brachial artery with ultrasound. With this technique we can observe the nature of the internal layer of the artery where heart disease starts. We are writing a few grants using this technique to observe how different diabetes treatments affect artery health. Our intent is to find the best diabetes treatment to prevent heart disease in diabetes. Wish us luck.

Most of my recreational activities this year were dog activities. We kept our travels fairly close to Indiana.....only traveling from Wisconsin to Kentucky and from Illinois to Ohio. We're still working on Dart's agility championship. She already has a championship in the show ring, a field championship, and an amateur field championship. She earned her Master Agility titles this year.....and is about 1/3 of the way to the agility championship.

Our annual hunting trip was great again this → year. So good, we may do it again over New Years.

Shine started in agility too this year. He's having a great time in Novice classes. →

We'll be starting our adult bird dog work in the spring.

I'm extremely proud of Dart's other pups.....

← Jake, who earned both his field championships at the age of 2 years old, remains the #1 Amateur Field Vizsla in the country. He only needs one major to finish his show championship.

Juli finished her Master Hunter title this year. → She participated in a Westminster Kennel Club hunt test, fine china and all.

← Lily is making a name for herself in agility. People say she's "on point" on the agility starting line. It's just her imitation of a border collie. She can almost run as fast as a border collie.....her jumpers speed has been recorded at 6 yards/second.

Happy holidays to everyone.....jp
